Hon. PETER LINDSAY

James Cook University

Member of JCU Council since 2014
Deputy Chancellor since 2014
Member of Finance Committee
Chair of Estate Sub-Committee
Member of CPB Board

Over many years Peter has been a passionate supporter of the University and has taken a significant role in establishing Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing, Allied Health, Veterinary Science, Agricultural Science, Biotechnology, AIMS @JCU, the Australian Tropical Science and Innovation Precinct and the AITHM project.

Peter believes in an education system where no consideration of wealth or privilege should be a determining factor. ... a system that encourages Australians of all ages to further their education so they can gain a comparative advantage to get ahead in the new global economy.

He understands the importance of higher educational participation, and the economic role of the innovation benefits generated by research.

Peter believes indigenous Australians deserve a better future. He sees education as the key driver for more job opportunities, empowered individuals and communities.

He has a comprehensive knowledge of the opportunity that James Cook has to take advantage of its tropical location and its reputation as a truly international University. He takes pride in JCU being a leader in research addressing the critical challenges facing the tropics, world-wide.

JCU's strategic commitment to 'Creating a brighter future for life in the tropics worldwide through graduates and discoveries that make a difference' deserves strong support.

Overall Peter is passionate about the ability of JCU to be part of making sure North Queensland continues to grow as a prosperous, go-ahead tropical region where people enjoy living and working.

As a local Businessman, family man, past student and teacher in the North Queensland region, I understand the economic, social, environmental and political pressures faced by us all in everyday life.

As a youth, I started my career as a national serviceman, proudly serving for two years in the Australian Army, attaining a senior NCO Rank. Upon leaving the Army I joined the Commonwealth Bank for whom I worked for 43 years. I also graduated in Commerce at James Cook University. These studies, upon graduation, led to a term of employment as both a lecturer and tutor by the Commerce department at JCU. This gave me the opportunity to work amongst, and teach, some of the regions up and coming business people.

Upon resuming with the Commonwealth Bank, I continued to advance my career and was appointed as the Senior Relationship Executive and Regional Manager of Corporate and Business Lending for Regional Queensland. My role in these positions allowed me to actively participate in the business growth of regional Queensland, and I assisted many families and companies in achieving their financial and business goals.

I have served on numerous Community and Church boards in Townsville as well as a State Councilor for CPA Australia
