Experience has no substitute

Acquire industry-level knowledge and develop professional skills to be work-ready and ahead of the game.

Gain valuable insight

This course comprises project-based subjects and tropical, industry-based assessment. You will develop a deep understanding of tourism, hospitality and events systems as a complex field of business.

Learn how to apply critical thinking skills to resource, analyse and synthesise information. Create solutions to tourism, hospitality and events problems with a focus on the challenges facing tropical destinations.

Develop practical skills

Internships, professional placements, field trips and projects are all central to the JCU Bachelor of Tourism, Hospitality and Events. From your first semester, you will participate in Work-Integrated Learning (WIL) to prepare you for a fast-paced industry. In real-world settings, you will develop the ability to focus on strategic management and sustainable leadership as you work with key stakeholders to acquire and convey knowledge and goals effectively.

“The best thing about studying this course is that you have the opportunity to go on field trips and meet organisers, managers and leaders in the industry. These people were not only a great source of knowledge, but provided career inspiration. JCU facilitates networking via events and functions very effectively. Whether you’re looking to improve, up-skill or even start from scratch in these professions, I recommend investigating the options at JCU.”

Matthew Bressington

BACHELOR OF TOURISM AND HOSPITALITY

“At James Cook University, we are making our students employable and career-ready.

We’re providing professional opportunities in the workplace where you can gain extensive work experience and get paid to work.

You can get incredible educational experience from our highly qualified and internationally renowned faculty.”

Dr Janice Scarinci

LECTURER, TOURISM, HOSPITALITY AND EVENTS

Career Opportunities

JCU Tourism, Hospitality and Events graduates are multi-skilled business professionals who find employment in diverse areas, in Australia and overseas.

Your career path could lead you to work in tourism planning, destination marketing and management agencies, government policy positions, airports, heritage agencies responsible for tourism and leisure use, tourist shopping and retail management, sports and events management, and community development agencies, among many other options.

You might also use your skills to start your own business or become a social entrepreneur.

JCU Accommodation

Where you choose to live while studying at JCU Brisbane is an important consideration. For various accommodation options you can check out the Choose Brisbane website.

Student One residences are located right in the heart of Brisbane's City Centre, only a short 200m or 3 minute walk away from the JCU Brisbane campus to either residence – Student One Wharf Street or Student One Adelaide Street. From a supermarket to coffee shops and a range of food outlets, we've got you covered.

Alternatively, international students can choose to live with a family in a homestay through the Australian Homestay Network (AHN). AHN Homestay is recommended as the best option for all new International Students visiting Australia for the first time.
