DETAILS OF THE NOMINATION

Title of Honorary Doctorate being Proposed

Reason why Honorary Doctorate is being Proposed:

(for example, in recognition of his/her exceptional public contribution to the field of medicine in the northern Queensland community and regional and rural communities nationally and internationally)

This section is to provide the rationale and evidence as to why the nominated person is worthy of an honorary award of James Cook University. Nominations should clearly demonstrate how one or more of the following factors has been met. Additional information may be appended to this form, if required.

Whilst completing this section, indicate if any of the activities being described were undertaken as part of a remunerated position. If this is the case, provide details of how the activities described were over and above those expected of the remunerated position.

Factor 1: outstanding service or distinguished public contribution to the northern Queensland and/or Singaporean communities

Factor 2: exceptional service which an individual has rendered to the University, comprising either academic excellence, distinguished creative achievement or the exercise of outstanding leadership

Factor 3: exceptional contributions beyond the expectations of the nominee's particular field of endeavour, which have influenced the thinking or general well-being of humanity
