

Welcome to Arts and Creative Media

College of Arts, Society and Education

Division of Tropical Environments and Societies

We warmly welcome you to study at James Cook University. We look forward to guiding you through your studies, helping you to further reveal and nurture the talent you contain within.

Here at A&CM we love to show off our student's creative talent and flair. It is really important for us to be able to highlight the fabulous work our students achieve to industry, prospective students, the rest of the university and the greater community in general.

But we of course have to ensure that you are happy to show your work off to the world. That's where the following legal document comes in. By signing this form you are essentially giving us access to any work produced by you for academic purposes during the duration of your degree. This allows us to promote both your work and the School of Creative Arts as one and helps us build a mutualistic relationship between A&CM and our enrolled students.

A&CM would intend to exhibit your student artwork in places like the eMerge Gallery, websites (including JCU & A&CM) and other online forums. Brochures, magazines, various advertisements and essentially all sorts of hard copy and electronic forums where we choose to demonstrate what we do.

We will of course credit all work when practically possible so people know who has actually created it. This helps to immediately build your profile and expose you to potential employers throughout your degree as well as contributing to your portfolio.

So by signing this release form you are allowing us to get your work out into the public arena where you can begin to build your profile and A&CM can enhance its reputation through the quality work our students produce; the perfect synergy.

So help us support you by allowing us to show your work to the world!

If you have any concerns or questions in relation to the Deed, its operation or its effect, please contact Professor Peter Murphy, Head of Academic Group, Arts & Creative Media, peter.murphy@jcu.edu.au
