“MBA is a wide-ranging and professional course, and the knowledge and skills gained can be applied to diverse global businesses. But the most important part of the MBA is the focus on critical thinking, which has given me the tools to keep learning throughout my whole career. Studying at JCU also enabled me to learn more about the regional development situation, which gave me the opportunity to target the best position to start my career.”

Career Opportunities

JCU Master of Business Administration graduates have outstanding leadership skills and are sought-after in a wide range of industries.

Graduates pursue careers in various areas including economics, finance, human resource management, marketing, accounting, business law, and information technology.

You could work as a management consultant, marketing manager, market research analyst, investment banker, operations manager, financial advisor, conflict resolution specialist, mediator, arbitrator, or conciliator.

Graduates who qualify with a major in Conflict Management and Resolution may be eligible for membership with the Australian National Mediator Accreditation System and Conflict Coaching International.

“Studying an MBA is a fulfilling and important step for managers aspiring to advance their careers in a competitive labour market or promote their own businesses. The investment in an MBA allows for development of management skills across the breadth of business related areas, such as people, marketing, financials, operations, innovation, entrepreneurship, and change. Our students engage in learning that builds critical thinking, problem solving and collaboration. With four campuses across two countries, students explore the latest in business trends and management practices and experience exposure to global professional networks.”
